With regard to Law Minister's remark supra, it may be observed that there are no applications left over after Selection by him. Since the Chairman NSLT Madras is the authority who allots the vacancies the Heads of Training Centres consult him with filling up of vacancies as there are quite a number of Non. GOVERNMENT OF INDIA

LABOUR DEPARTMENT

SPECIAL BRANCH A.

New Delhi, the 30th December 1941.

To,

*ALL PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENTS.

SUBJECT:—Technical Training Scheme—Acceleration of recruitment.

SIR,

I am directed to forward herewith an extract of Part I, item 1 (A) of the proceedings of the recent Conference of Chairmen of National Service Labour Tribunals and Regional Inspectors of Technical Training, together with a statement showing the percentage of vacancies filled at training centres in the various Provinces on the 30th November 1941.

2. With a few exceptions, recruitment is still not keeping pace with requirements, while the need for skilled men and a speed up of recruitment is growing more urgent from day to day. The recommendations made by the recent Conference will in all probability be accepted, but it may take some days before final orders are issued. The first of the pamphlets referred to in item (vi) of Section (A) Publicity is already in the Press and it is hoped that copies will be issued by the end of the month. In the meantime, it is of the utmost importance that steps should be taken without delay to popularise and accelerate recruitment. I am to suggest therefore for the consideration of the Provincial Government that, if this has not already been done, Committees should be set up in every District (or at least in those Districts in which there are training centres) with the twofold object of publicising the scheme and in the case of centres which are not "Civmil" of interviewing and selecting recruits. Where the power to recruit has been delegated to Heads of Training Centres, it is suggested that the Heads of those centres should be made members of the Committees and that they should have the right to call on the committees for assistance in recruiting whenever they require it. The Government of India consider that if these Committees are to function efficiently, the fullest assistance must be taken from non-officials who should be encouraged to take every interest in the work of the Committees and in recruitment. The Chairmen of Tribunals have already been asked to get into touch with members of the National Defence Council in their areas and it is hoped that Chairmen will freely take the advice of the non-official members of that Council in matters connected with publicity and recruitment.

3. I am also to suggest that all District and Sub-Divisional Officers, all District and Assistant Inspectors of Schools, the Head Masters of all High and Middle English Schools and the leading non-officials of each District should be supplied with particulars of the scheme and application forms, and asked to give the scheme as wide publicity as possible by talks, lectures and addresses in the local areas in which they reside or in the schools with which they are concerned, to distribute application forms when asked for and to forward all completed application forms which they may receive to the nearest local Selection Committee.

* With 2 spare copies.

4. In order to ensure that the fullest value is obtained from these measures, it is suggested that the application forms, the prospectus (copies enclosed) and the following pamphlets should be translated and printed in the various languages in common use in the Province and distributed through the Department concerned with Education, or Information to the local Selection Commitees and the persons referred to above with the necessary instructions :—

(1) "Technical Training Scheme" (25 copies enclosed).

(2) "Join the Indian Army Ordnance Corps (25 copies will follow).

If the Provincial Government so desire, the Central Government will be prepared to pay the cost of printing and distributing these papers and pamphlets, and it is hoped that as speed is now a factor of vital importance, such printing and distribution may be taken in hand at once. If any further information is required, the Chairman of the National Service Labour Tribunal constituted for your Province, to whom copies of this letter and the enclosures have been sent, should be consulted.

5. It has been suggested from time to time that the undertaking which trainees have to sign on joining a training centre and which provides that if called upon to do so the trainee will join one of the technical branches of the Defence Services and be prepared to serve overseas is retarding recruitment, and that recruitment for the technical branches of the Services should be separated from recruitment for Ordnance factories and civil industry. This point has been carefully considered but it is not possible to make the division suggested. The demands of the Services and industry are constantly fluctuating and while at one particular stage the needs of industry may require priority, at another stage, as at present, the requirements of the Services must take preference. While therefore every endeavour is being and will be made to meet the wishes of trainees, it is not and will not be possible to guarantee that any particular trainee will be given the employment of his choice. One of the most urgent needs of the moment therefore is to popularise service in the Army and Navy, and with the growing demand of all communities to be more strongly represented in the Forces, it is not thought that the difficulty of securing sufficient recruits for training should be insuperable provided the help of non-official agencies and organisations is sought.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient Servant,

H. TUFNELL-BARRETT,

Deputy Secretary to the Government of India.

EXTRACT FROM THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE JOINT CONFERENCE OF CHAIRMEN OF NATIONAL SERVICE LABOUR TRIBUNALS AND REGIONAL INSPECTORS OF TECHNICAL TRAINING HELD AT NEW DELHI, ON THE 24TH TO 26TH NOVEMBER 1941.

I.—TECHNICAL TRAINING

1. Expansion of Training Scheme and acceleration of recruitment.—The Chairman stated that recruitment was still not keeping pace with demands and that with the expansion of the Training Scheme and the growing need for trained personnel, it was essential that recruitment should be accelerated. Ways and means of speeding up recruitment were then discussed under two heads—(A) Publicity, and (B) Recruitment—and the following recommendations were made:—

(A) PUBLICITY.

(i) Selected Heads of training centres should be authorised to visit schools and colleges and lecture on the Training Scheme with a view to securing recruits. Their travelling expenses should be paid by the Central Government.

(ii) Arrangements should be made for ex-trainees who have enrolled in the Army to visit training centres and speak of conditions in the Army.

(iii) Arrangements should be made for selected trainees to visit Jubbulpore and other Army training centres during their training.

(iv) National Service Labour Tribunals should organise visits to civil training centres by influential public men.

(v) Letters and post-cards from ex-trainees expressing satisfaction with conditions of life in the Army should be posted on the notice-boards at training centres.

(vi) Pamphlets describing life and conditions in the Army should be distributed free and more publicity should be carried on in the districts by local agencies. Lectures and addresses at schools and institutions would be helpful.
